5 Points & 94 Points

A beautifully styled cabernet, the fragrant bouquet shows cassis, plum, spiced cherry, cedar and smoked meat characters with nuances of tobacco and dark chocolate. The palate is concentrated and generous, and delivers excellent fruit power and intensity, brilliantly structured by fine, chalky tannins. The wine offers fabulous harmony and integration. At its best: now to 2024.

SYDNEY INTERNATIONAL WINE COMPETITION

2016

Gold Medal

Sue Bastian - Mid ruby in colour. It was not overly overt. It was quite a delicate nose but I found some cherries and some delicate oak and bright fruit and it was more fruit forward on the palate. It was a very soft wine and it was a little bit overwhelmed by the food.

Cameron Douglas - Moderate plus fruity intensity. It's relatively smooth yet simple on the palate. Ultimately in balance with medium to medium plus tannins and acidity. Overall it's okay. Good with the food as well. In fact the wine has more balance ultimately.

Mark Robertson - A very bright looking wine. It's more herbal and earthy on the aroma with a hint of that crayon notes and plummy fruit markers there as well. A touch of greenness comes through on the palate which is otherwise pretty good. With food those iodines and greenness and that crayon note stick out a little bit.

Andrea Pritzker - A deep inky garnet hue. The bouquet shows dark blackberry fruit leading into a rich full bodied palate. Plush with plentiful ripe fine grained tannins. Excellent concentration and intensity. No change with the food.

Andreas Larsson - Showing a very fresh nose of red and blackcurrant, sage and some aniseed. Also in the lower spectrum of full. Mid weight with present but balanced tannin. Very elegant fruit. Juicy and fresh with a long and opulent finish. It works really nicely with the food.
