Bright, fresh and fragrant, the attractive bouquet shows white stone fruit, rockmelon, lemon zest and watermelon characters, leading to a vibrant palate that is juicy and lively. The wine is pristine and inviting with refreshing fruit flavours and a lingering crisp finish. At its best: now to 2018.

Bright, even, light pink colour with some depth and slight purple hues on the rim. The nose is softly presented with fresh and delicate aromas of red florals and red berry fruits, showing subtle redcurrant notes, and gentle mineral elements, forming a finely concentrated, but rounded core. Dry to taste and medium-bodied, the palate is bright and vigorous with aromatic flavours of red florals, redcurrants and berry fruits, and mineral nuances. The mouthfeel features crisp acidity and mouthwatering, fine-textured phenolics. The wine flows with some grip, leading to a dry, textural, thirst-quenching finish. This is a vigorous dry rosé, with floral and berry fruit flavours and thirst-quenching mineral notes on a crisp palate with dry grip. A blend of Grenache, Syrah and Cinsault, pressed for the rosé style, cool-fermented to 13.0% alc., the wine aged 3-4 months on lees in tank.

Gentle salmon rose colours. Aromas and flavours of light red fruits, a whisper of rose and quiet mineral tones. The mineral layer speaks louder on the palate; crisp and refreshing acidity, cranberry and strawberry red fruit flavours are quiet though obvious; crisp dry finish. Great choice with a range of crunchy and flavourful appetizer. Balanced and well made. Drink now and through 2018\19.
